MAINE VOTING

Republicans Win All Important
Offices in First Election
Since Pearl Harbor.

By The Associated Press
PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 15.—Maine Republicans captured every major office in the nation's first state election since Pearl Harbor.

Returned to office by margins of more than two to one in yesterday's balloting—the lightest since 1930—were U. S. Senator Wallace H. White Jr., for a third term, Gov. Sumner Sewall and U. S. Rep. Margaret C. Smith of the second congressional district.

The tightest contest gave Robert H. Hale of Portland, the first district seat with a majority of about 10,000 over the best vote-getter, the Democrats have had in Maine in generations—former Gov. Louis J. Brann. The seat is being vacated by U. S. Rep. James C. Oliver (R.).

Hale, a 52-year-old Portland lawyer, pledged support of the President as commander-in-chief, as did all the Republican candidates, but added "that does not mean acquiescence in everything he does."

The pre-election political calendar reached a climax today with primaries in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Michigan and Wisconsin. The Democratic state nominating convention in Connecticut, and a primary run-off in Mississippi, Rhode Island will hold state conventions and Louisiana will conduct some runs off of congressional primaries later to complete the balloting before election day.

The Massachusetts Republican primaries centered attention on renomination efforts of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. He was opposed by Courtney Crocker, Boston attorney, who has assailed Lodge's pre-war voting record.

In Michigan, Mrs. Dorothy Kemp Roosevelt, the former wife of G. Hall Roosevelt, brother of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, sought the Democratic house nomination in the 17th district. A Republican contest for the senatorial nomination was staged by Gerald L. K. Smith, former aid of the late Huey Long; Elton R. Eaton, Plymouth weekly newspaper publisher, and Circuit Judge Homer Ferguson of Detroit.

Informal dress will be worn, the committee announced.

Already at least $23,000 is assured from the sale of dinner tickets and there is a possibility the dinner will net the county war bond drive $35,000, George E. Plonck, general chairman of arrangements said last night.

Dinner Program
Fred E. Guthrie, attorney, will be master of ceremonies at the dinner and will introduce Astaire, who in turn will introduce Massey and Herbert. The dinner program will be brief and will close with Miss Massey leading the singing of the national anthem.

"Be at the stadium early" is the warning to those who cannot be present for the dinner. It has been announced that if it should rain the rally will be at the Chautauqua pavilion in Garfield park.

The Harding High school band will play a concert from 7:45 to 8. The program, which will be carried by Station WMRN, will start promptly at 8 with Wilson B. Tway as master of ceremonies.

Men of the Lions club will take pledges in the stadium and cash purchases will be made at the speakers' platform, where Robert White has arranged to have bank clerks ready to fill out the war bond certificates. Two girls will be at the platform to handle the radio calls.

Mr. Wickersham will be the auctioneer.

The stars are scheduled to arrive at the stadium at 8:30, preceded by the Boy Scout color guard. They will be greeted by a fanfare from the Harding band.

Mr. Tway will present Astaire, who will introduce his co-travelers in the bond drive.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Price Administrator Leon Henderson today called for stabilization of farm prices, and wages and salaries, as a necessary step to avert the "disaster" of inflation.

Unified Drive Planned To Get
Farm Scrap Metal in County

All Interested Groups To Pool Efforts in Single Campaign To Begin Soon.

Arrangements to pool all of the scrap metal salvage campaign activities of various Marion County groups into one big drive to cover the area outside of the city of Marion were made at a meeting of the Marion County Salvage committee last night.

Pleased with the response given by Marion city residents in a house-to-house drive held Friday in which more than 30 tons of scrap metal were collected, the committee last night turned its full attention to the rural areas which are expected to produce far more than the city's yield.

The meeting was held in the office of Safety-Service Director Clyde C. Caldwell, and one of the main matters settled by the group was to coordinate all scrap metal efforts into a single drive. The need for this action became apparent after the city and county schools, implement dealers, petroleum industry, newspapers, county extension officials and others indicated their respective groups had been asked by the federal government to "help get in the scrap."

Rather than have each group conduct a separate drive, everyone present agreed the best results would come from a single campaign, with all interested groups taking part.

The Marion Star will do its part in the nationwide effort newspapers are making in response to a request of federal officials to conduct scrap metal campaigns by working with the unified county-wide drive.

To Name Committee
The first step will be the appointment of a committee representing all of the various groups interested in the scrap metal program. This group will outline the details of a proposed drive and report back to the Marion County Salvage committee at a meeting to be called in the near future. If the committee's plan is approved without change, the drive will get under way immediately afterward.

It was estimated last night that Marion county farms could yield between 1,500 and 2,000 tons of scrap metal if a 100 per cent drive were staged. However, some of this is in locations difficult to reach, and some of it can be salvaged only if considerable work is done, such as dismantling heavy machinery or removing wood parts.

Suggestions Made
The committee considered several possible methods of procedure but left the decision to the smaller committee that will direct the campaign. One of the suggestions was that the salvage committee make arrangements to haul the scrap metal from the farms to the junkyard and that the community pay farmers a flat rate for their scrap. Another suggestion was that Marion county school pupils be asked to take the scrap metal to their respective schools and that the school be paid for all of the metal it can gather. In this way, it was pointed out, schools could raise sufficient money to buy moving picture equipment or use the money in any way it wished.

It was agreed the drive would be most effective only if the county's 800 miles of roads were covered thoroughly and the approximately 2,400 farms contacted individually.

Committee Enlarged
The Marion County Salvage committee has been increased by the addition of J. T. Harper of the AAA office, J. T. McCaffrey of the International Harvester Co., Harry Price of the Farmers' Implement Co. and Fred Dutt of the Dutt Implement Store, as members. Others concerned with the drive are already members of the committee.

Mrs. Dutt has been appointed by the state chairman of the farm equipment division of the scrap salvage committee to head implement dealers' salvage activities in Marion county and told the group the dealers will be glad to cooperate in the unified campaign. The county schools, AAA office, county farm agents or likewise have agreed to help in the single campaign rather than hold separate ones.

CALL 21-DAY
FINAL PHASE

Reds Refute Report, Say Anti-Tank Barricades Block German Assaults.

By The Associated Press
Moscow, Sept. 15.—Anti-tank barricades and heavy tank destroyers were reported to have blocked repeated German assaults in the bloody 21-day-old battle of Stalingrad today and the Red army were even reported passing at times to the counterattack.

By contrast, German military quarters asserted Nazi troops were "thrashing deeper" into Stalingrad amid heavy street fighting and declared that the battle for the Volga industrial center was approaching "its final phase."

Soviet accounts indicated that the invaders were being checked on all sides of the strategic city.

More than 2,000 Germans were killed in the Stalingrad zone yesterday, dispatches said, while 4,000 Nazis were killed on the central (Moscow) front as the Russians captured a fortified town in a three-day fight.

Back to the Volga, the defenders of Stalingrad stood in their guns under the heaviest of pattern bombing and still held their back down upon the heart of the city against the redoubtable assault of Nazi troops and tanks.

Retreat Impossible
"It is impossible to retreat any farther," a Russian correspondent reported from the war's bloodiest battlefield.

But even while the bomb-applauded city fought for its life, the Red army kept up its own dogged punching at the German defensive lines on the Moscow front to the north, and reported the annihilation of about 4,000 Germans and the capture of a fortified town in a three-day fight.

Russian planes and Russian tanks still played their part in the fight to save Stalingrad, heavily outnumbered though they were. And the Russians reported that although their lines sagged again and again under terrific onslaught, the German gains now were being held to a costly 300 to 400 yards for a whole day's fighting.

Whole blocks of the city of Stalingrad annihilated in bomb-strewn ruins. But the smoke of war factories rose with the smoke of devastation as workers toiled within sound of firing from the battleline to keep the troops supplied.

Bombers Strike at Rear

Field dispatches said the front-line terrain evidently had been plotted in squares for the Stukas, with the pilots assigned to exterminate "every living thing within them to clear the way for tanks and motorized infantry."

The mid-day communiqué told of the repulse of attacks both west and southward of the industrial center, and the details of scattered engagements indicated more than 2,000 Germans were slain in that critical area yesterday.

Red army men fighting west of Stalingrad slew 700 Germans in a series of defensive engagements and destroyed two tanks while Soviet artillery "dispersed enemy infantry concentrations and blew up six ammunition trucks," the communiqué said.

Southwest of Stalingrad, where one frustrated German assault was described officially as "unprecedented in its ferocity," two axis infantry companies were wiped out by mortar fire.

Caucasus Town Taken
A German tank formation broke into another Russian town in the battle of the central Caucasus, but is under the fire of an elite Soviet detachment which is

SHOVEL CO. GROUP BOOSTS BOND SALES

"100 Per Cent for 10 Per Cent" Is Drive Slogan.

A labor-management committee, appointed for the particular campaign of getting 100 per cent of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. employees on the 10 per cent payroll deduction plan of buying war bonds, yesterday started a bulletin board campaign to carry the importance of cooperation.

The bulletin board campaign will continue through Wednesday and on Thursday each employee will be contacted by a member of the "committee of 100."

The company has down a treasury department Minute Man flag for several months, showing that at least 90 per cent of its employees are on the payroll deduction plan of savings.

The present campaign of "100 per cent for 10 per cent" is being staged at the request of the treasury department.

Some employees are on vacation and others are scattered throughout the United States, which will make it impossible to make an exact report for some time, the labor-management committee reported.

The committee, organized solely for the 10 per cent drive, is composed of E. L. Cleveland, chairman, R. L. Bailey, L. D. May Jr., O. V. Leaven, W. K. Hamer and G. B. Hefflinger.

The members were named through the mutual cooperation of Lodge No. 1049, United Steelworkers of America, and the company management.

The "committee of 100" represents one man for every 25 employees. At a meeting last Friday each man on the committee signed up for 10 per cent deduction. The program included showing of sound motion pictures dealing with the war, furnished by the Coca-Cola company.

Argentina Seeks To Prove Nation Is Not Pro-German

President Castillo To Visit Bolivia In Effort To Cement Better Foreign Relations.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 15.—(Wide World)—The visit of President Castillo to Bolivia in an effort to cement better foreign relations with that country, is being regarded by the Argentine press as a significant move to prove the nation's neutrality in the war.

Since the last conference of American foreign ministers in Rio de Janeiro, Argentina has been only the support of Chile in its decision to maintain neutrality in the war.

The whole effort, conducted in the face of critical press comment in other countries, was keynoted when Dr. Castillo told delegates to the inter-American police and judicial conference: "I am not a Nazi. On the contrary, I am an American."

Other Signs Seen

There have been other evidences of rapprochement in recent months. They included:

1. Cancellation of a ten billion peso ($2,000,000,000) dollar debt owed by Paraguay, and the establishment in Asuncion of the first foreign branch of the central bank of the nation.

2. The sending of a military mission to Peru headed by General Martin Graw, major general of the army.

3. Invitation to President Juan Antonio Rios of Chile to visit this country on his return from the United States.

4. Invitation to Foreign Minister Carlos Pizarro Soto of Venezuela to come here for the dedication of a new monument to Simon Bolivar.

5. Establishment of a trial bank of a west coast service for

Argentina - Chilean relations, good for a long time, have been bolstered by recent frequent visits back and forth of cultural and commercial delegations of both countries. Argentina is making special preparations, however, to receive President Rios. The Chilean chief executive will dedicate a new statue of his country's national hero, Bernardo O'Higgins, in Buenos Aires.

CHAPTER THIRTY Snake!

HELEN'S eyes which had been closed, flicked open. There was such utter anguish in their fevered depths that Sandy all but cried out:

"Snake..."

Her eyes closed and her body shuddered with a convulsion. Gil and Sandy did not wait for more. Together they lifted her, sleeping bag and all, and carried her out of the tent where they could work unhindered. Sandy snatched the medical kit and found the hypodermic needle and snake-bite serum, while Gil set to work to lance and dress the wound. While they worked Helen moaned softly from time to time, her body quivered with convulsions and perspiration glistened on her skin.

"She's going into a coma, I'm afraid," Sandy said at last. Gil shook his head over the prostrate figure. "She must have been bitten in the night but I wonder how? A snake couldn't get into the tent and she was all right when she left the fire."

"Poor kid, I wonder why she didn't tell us when it happened instead of waiting there in her tent to die."

"Maybe she didn't know she had been bitten until the wound began to swell—you know, she's pretty ignorant about such things. Maybe she felt all this morning and thought it was something trifling. And, Gil, we don't know what kind of snake bit her. She probably doesn't know herself. But I'm wondering if the Flemings have any other kind of serum. I'd like to give her shots of everything available."

"I'll dash over and bring back both of them. They've had more experience in these jungles than you or I. It might not even turn out to be snake bite. Might be a spider or something else."

He was gone. Helen's eyelids fluttered and lifted. "Sandy..."

Sandy leaned closer. "Yes, Helen? I'm here. What do you want?" "Brush—back—tent."

"Is that where the snake bit you, Helen?"

Her eyes closed a moment then opened again, obviously with an effort. "The—codev—"

Sandy stifled. "The codev? You mean it is there—in the brush? Helen! Did you go to that place and get the codev last night? Did you?"

It she had, then it was a yellow-jaw that had bitten her! She barely nodded. Sandy had to lean close to catch her whispered words.

"For—science..." Then she had gone! She had taken the chance—for science! Tyra had gone for love.

Reborn And suddenly it came to Sandy

The young flying cadet who was in a plane crash last Tuesday in which Lt. Carl E. Danner Jr. of Marion was killed, met death in an airplane accident at the Barro Colorado, Panama, on Sept. 7, according to a news report from Panama, Calif.

He was Lt. Allyn F. B. Taylor, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Taylor of Selma, Calif.

In the accident he was killed. Lieutenant Taylor had not yet received his commission and was a student pilot.

The plane struck a high tension wire and crashed. Lieutenant Danner was trapped in the cockpit. Taylor, although injured, was able to walk from the wreckage.

Both Lieutenants Taylor's parents were connected with the air corps in World War I. His father served with the U. S. air corps in England during 1917-19 and his mother, a native of England, was with the Royal Air Force during the same period, serving as a technician.

Lt. Taylor's death was the first air corps casualty among the scores of Selma youths now in that branch of the service, according to the news report. He was trained at Lindbergh Field at San Diego, Minster Field at Bakersfield and was commissioned at Luke Field, Ariz.

Lieutenant Danner was the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Danner of 654 Girard avenue.

The news account of Lieutenant Taylor's death was received by Mrs. F. P. Elliott of 811 Cherry street, from her son, David G. Elliott, of Fresno, with whom Lieutenant Danner visited.

FORMER MARION WOMAN'S HUSBAND BURIED AT SEA

Letter Tells of Rites for Late Hugh M. Gibson.

Hugh M. Gibson, husband of the former Miss Lucille Nelson of Marion, who died suddenly last month in Barbados, British West Indies, was buried at sea at 8 p. m. on Aug. 29, according to a letter received by Mrs. Gibson's uncle, J. W. Nelson of Hotel Marion.

Mrs. Gibson had been planning a sailing trip on the twenty-ninth and had been looking forward to the trip. A launch carried the coffin out to sea and Mr. Gibson's coat, "Revenge" was towed out, carrying the flowers. When the coffin was put into the sea the flowers floated out over the water.

"It seemed much nicer to me than leaving him in a strange cemetery," Mrs. Gibson wrote. She said it would be impossible for her to travel until after the war, and that for the duration she will remain at 15 Pavilion court, Barbados, B. W. I.

Mrs. Gibson, a native of England and retired from years of British government service in India, was enroute home four years ago when he suffered a heart attack at Trinidad. He and his wife decided after his recovery that they would like to stay in the West Indies. His mother, Mrs. Arthur S. Gibson, lives at Pottery and Hanks, England. They visited in Marion before leaving for England in 1933.

Mrs. Gibson, a graduate of Marion High school, lived in Marion many years. She is a member of the late D. C. Nelson whose widow lives at 406 East Church street.

Service Flag Dedicated by Bethlehem Grange

The program at a meeting of Bethlehem grange Friday night featured the dedication of a service flag with eight young men of the organization honored. They were: Reesce and Richard Jones, Myron Bogart, Owen Strine, Byron Good, Woodrow Kaeber, Homer Porteus and Cecil Conklin. The program opened with community singing of World War I songs. A victory drill was presented by 11 girls dressed in white with red and blue sashes. With a single call by Oscar Kaeber and singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" the flag was borne into the room and the salute to the flag followed. The flag was unveiled by Miss Mary McHaffey, grange chaplain, and the history of the service flag was given by Robert Rice, grange lecturer. Stars representing the honored members were pinned on the flag background by the girls of the victory drill group. A dedication address was given by Rev. J. R. Wynd of the Methodist church of Prospect. The singing of "God Bless America" closed the program.

During the business session H. H. Berlinger gave a resume of legislation which has effected the farmer during the last year. Miss Gladys Uncepher, home economics teacher at Pleasant township school, acted as judge of a bread baking contest. The entry of Mrs. Alvin Augenstein won first place, while that of Mrs. Harry Strine won second.

The next meeting will be boosted night and the date has been changed from Friday to Thursday, Sept. 24. Teachers of the Prospect, Pleasant and Waldo schools will be guests. Mr. and Mrs. John Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Gerfen will be on the refreshment committee.

MORTGAGES RETIRED AT INCREASED RATE

Farm Loans Show Drop, Committee Reports.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—The nation's farmers, enjoying more favorable incomes because of the war, are retiring their farm mortgage debts at an unprecedented rate, says the national agricultural credit committee.

The committee also disclosed at a meeting yesterday there was "very little evidence of speculation in farm lands" and that prices of farm real estate had tended to level off during recent months.

Governor A. G. Black of the Farm Credit administration, committee chairman, summarized the situation in the farm mortgage field as "satisfactory," and expressed the committee's gratification in the repayment which farmers have made ahead of those scheduled in their contracts. The committee reported many farmers were not only making advance payments on loan installments, but that the record of complete pay-offs was "exceedingly high."

W. E. Rhea, federal land bank commissioner, reported that farmers paid $238,000,000 to the land banks in the year ended last June 30 and borrowed only $87,000,000 in the same period. In addition, he said, the farmers had made payments into a future payment fund totaling approximately $8,900,000.

Representatives of five national insurance companies, which claim to hold about one half of the mortgage company farm mortgage loans, said farmers paid $50,000,000 on their loans during the period, compared with $30,000,000 in new borrowing.

A committee spokesman said that discussions brought out that farm real estate prices in many parts of the country now approximate what was termed "normal" when viewed from a long-term earnings standpoint. It was the consensus of the committee, he said, that normal values should continue to be used in appraisal of properties rather than prevailing market prices.

Black said that the committee "sees no signs of a speculative boom at this time."

State Maps Surprise

Blackout Tests Soon

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 15.—Surprise blackouts to test civilian defense preparations will be held in a number of Ohio cities soon, Executive Director Ralph H. Stone of the state defense council said today.

"Local defense councils should immediately enroll more volunteers, educate the public as to what is expected during blackouts and then conduct tests at regular intervals," Stone declared, warning against being caught off guard as Piqua was last Thursday evening.

Blame "for the poor showing can not be placed at the doorstep of the Piqua defense council since 92 per cent of the defense corps reported for duty after the first alarm," Stone commented.

Back to Church

THIS is the time of year when the American people go back to church. Pastor and people have been on vacation, pews have been empty and visiting preachers have faced a discouraging array of vacant seats.

We are now back on schedule until next summer and all the activities of the church pick up in full where they left off the latter part of last June.

War brings a renewed interest in religion. The statement that "there were no atheists fighting on Bataan" has been credited to several officers, including Gen. MacArthur. A questionnaire circulated among a large contingent of army men about to leave for overseas service showed that the most frequent request for a parting gift was a Bible. Something of this same feeling is also in evidence among civilians.

The church offers an hour of peace and hope in a troubled world. This is the best time of the year to make its acquaintance or renew its associations. Regardless of your creed or your feeling toward things religious you'll find a sense of calm and abiding faith in pleasant contrast to the turmoil of the war world.

The music will be helpful. If you want to find relief from the troubled spirit of the world, try singing one of the grand old hymns like this one:

"O God, our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come;
Our Shelter from the stormy blast,
And our Eternal Home."

Flypaper

SOME disillusioned Germans, reports a correspondent from a neutral capital, have coined a saying that would hustle them off to a concentration camp if it came to the ears of their fuhrer. When they hear of another Hitler success in Russia they say, "The fly has captured another inch of flypaper."

There may be grim truth in the phrase. So long as the Russian people are unconquered, Hitler cannot release his armies from the positions into which they have fought their way by such costly victories. While Russia fights the other United Nations have priceless time in which to prepare their big blow.

Another winter campaign in Russian cold may be the turning point in the war. Tacticians believe that Hitler lost his chance to win the war when he became entangled in a campaign which may be recorded as the bloodiest in all the history of a world of wars.

College or War

ONE of the many problems facing those who must provide manpower for the war is whether youth is more important in the armed service or in college preparing for specialized services. In this, as in most other things calling for the exercise of judgment, there have been many conflicting opinions and contrary decisions.

The war department has taken its stand. So far as it is concerned, youths of military age will not be granted deferment to finish college. The navy is still enlisting young men in its reserves and giving them a chance to finish their college courses.

In the draft boards themselves there has been wide variance of classifications. Some boards have put students in the deferred list and others have put them in uniform.

The main questions as to whether a youth is more important carrying a gun now or preparing himself for leadership a little later is one for the top authorities to decide. That there should be complete uniformity is a matter of simple justice. If the army is going to take college men, deferments by the navy and marines should also be ended and draft boards should have a yardstick by which they can measure all cases with equal justice.

Groceries and War

EVERY time the housewife goes to the store for a pound of coffee or a handful of bananas she gets a practical object lesson in the way wars are conducted.

There is a scarcity in the United States of these articles, along with some others. They come from friendly nations in Central and South America. Supplies at the source are abundant and growers are as anxious to sell as the consumers are to buy.

The bottleneck is shipping. It takes every bottom worthy to sail the seas to carry munitions and supplies to our soldiers in all the far corners of the world and to give occasional help to our allies as, for example, the transporting of 40,000 British soldiers around Africa to the Near East.

A stream of ships is still in the South American trade despite submarine action but they are loaded with bauxite for aluminum, fats for explosive, cattle hides for army shoes and other materials more essential than bananas to the war effort.

To the thinking American trifling inconveniences like these are welcome. They are proof that the important things are being put first. After the war is won everybody can have the second cup of coffee and all the bananas of Costa Rica.

News Behind the News

President and Senate Farm Bloc
Jockeying Over Price Control.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The farm bloc would try to offer some new definition of party, and further to Mr. Roosevelt's hands.

A real fight, instead of a sham one over this, would then ensue. Mr. Roosevelt would be forced to act on his own authority, and Democratic processes would again be defeated.

The whole fray, therefore, has the character of political maneuvering between Mr. Roosevelt and the farm bloc to get as much out of each other as they can. The compromise is as much as he could expect to get. It is all he will get.

The Record

The sham battle also tends to keep out of the debate the fact that Mr. Roosevelt has not acted against inflation with any real strength up to now.

While he tried to blame congress for his failure (and theirs), everyone knows the facts of the matter too well to even warrant debate on that subject.

The truth is the administration openly opposed anti-inflationary freezing—hard freezing—at the beginning when it should have been done. Its economists said they wanted to get wages and prices up a little, meaning of course, only union wages and farm prices.

You will recall this has long been a New Deal goal, which never was reached through any of the artificial economic hokus-pokus, until the gigantic war expenditures came along, and accomplished it too well.

Even now, most of the big farm crops—the surplus crops—are not above the parity Mr. Roosevelt wants, and hence a further farm price advance is possible in some lines, unless freezing is done as of a recent date.

The record shows that when the original Henderson price legislation was up, and the Congress proposed for real price-wage freezing was offered in the house, the administration opposed and defeated it.

Real Question

Thus while the real question is whether Mr. Roosevelt is going to freeze hard enough to protect the people and the government against rising living and war costs, all the news and headlines have recently been pushed off into extraneous matters that obscure more embarrassing realities.

The important thing is how many actually wounded loopholes both Mr. Roosevelt and congress will leave in their freezing when they finally get their freezebox going.

Planning Post-War World

Alf Landon Points to "Dangers of a Versailles Peace."

By ALF M. LANDON
Former Governor of Kansas

COMPLETE, unquestioned victory must precede any rational consideration of the problems of a stable world after the war. That will not be a complete answer, however. The mere elimination of Hitler, the bloody dictator, will not solve the problem. From time immemorial, mankind has had the dream of achieving peace by destroying dictators and tyrants. Dictators and tyrants have come and gone but the problem remains. To achieve an orderly and stable world, we must eliminate the evils of which Hitler is merely a manifestation.

Some of these evils are: economic pressure, militarism, imperialism and race wars and hatreds going back to the dark ages.

Somewhat Premature

At this time no one can be definite as to the cues. I am appalled at the blindness with which some are discussing peace structure. Such discussion creates a false sense of military security and undue optimism as to the soundness of our war position.

The ultimate result depends not only on who wins the war but how long it takes to get the job done.

There is an alarming lack of realization as to what the effect of the war may be upon our national way of life and the exhaustion it will bring to our national resources. The last war was essentially to protect our vital interests as a nation. It was a war of survival like the present war. But it got cluttered up with a lot of slogans. Our disappointment in finding out that the rest of the world was not as decent as we were and simply would not like what we liked caused us to turn our backs for a time on our responsibilities and interests.

If we are to have a stable world we must not repeat the Versailles error of the rhetorical instead of the realistic approach to peace. Given the opportunity, we must encourage and nurture the re-establishment of representative governments wherever possible. We must realize the foundations of a stable world are based on justice—not force.

We can expect to meet at the next peace table the same old influences that have been promoters of hate and greed. Turn about in the past centuries, France and Germany have been crushed and have risen again. We know it is impossible to put a mighty people into shackles and keep them there indefinitely. If we do not again chase impulsively we rainbow of bands able to create a world Utopia overnight, but exercise the necessary steady patience taught by our increased experience with the true causes of an unstable world, we can hope to contribute to giving the world "life and food for future years."

We must always remember, however, in all our discussion of the future, the successful conduct of the war is a prerequisite to the successful conduct of the peace.

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Thursday, Sept. 15, 1932. Two gunmen held up the Richmond Banking Co. shortly after 8 a. m. and escaped with between $50,000 and $100,000. They compelled bank officials and employees and five customers to lie on the floor while they took currency from the vault and tills.

The committee from Buckeye Aerie No. 337, Fraternal Order of Eagles, in charge of circulating petitions in Marion county asking for enactment of an old age pension law in Ohio reported that 1,750 signatures had been obtained.

IN FOR THE DURATION

Meat Problem Tough One

By Herman Allen.

WHY is there a meat shortage? What can be done about it? I confabbed with a couple of Agriculture Department experts about that.

"Well, heck," said one of them, "here's why there's a meat shortage."

He jotted down a few figures. "Look," he said, "Last year we produced 19,500,000,000 pounds of meat. Lend-lease and supplies for the armed forces took only 200,000,000 pounds, leaving a civilian supply of 19,300,000,000 pounds. We were operating under a 'free price' system then, without ceilings, so that supply was just equal with the demand."

"Now look at this year's figures. The total supply is bigger than ever—23 billion pounds. Lend-lease and armed forces will take about six billion pounds, leaving 17 billion for civilian consumption."

"Average domestic consumption for the five years 1937 to 1941 was 17,800,000,000, slightly more than the supply for this year. However, men who will be in the armed forces by the end of the year normally would account for about 1,400,000,000 pounds a year in civilian life. On that basis, you would expect the demand to be about 16,400,000,000 pounds this year."

"In spite of that, we figure the demand is going to be 20 billion pounds—three billion more than the supply."

"WHAT we really have is a normal supply but a demand far above normal."

There have been statements in some quarters that one reason for the shortage is that packers have to pay high prices for livestock (there is no ceiling price on the animals themselves) and have to sell at comparatively low wholesale ceiling prices. The reasoning is that this is forcing some packers out of business and that consequently there is less meat on the market.

My two men at the Agriculture Department snorted.

"Shucks," said one, "in the first place, we have reports of only three or four small packers going out of business. In the second place, there aren't any loose marketable animals running around."

The demand is so great that they're going to be snapped up by other packers."

It is true that some packers are feeling the squeeze, and one suggested remedy is a ceiling on livestock.

Right there, said my two experts, is the catch. It would be next to impossible to set a ceiling on beef cattle, for instance, because you have to consider the meat yield of various breeds, ages, weights, etc.

MEAT has been especially short the past two or three months, just as it is every summer. Until marketing picks up in the fall, the Agricultural Marketing Administration has done two things to relieve the pinch. First, although the meat going to our fighting Russian allies is regarded as the most important meat on earth, purchases for lend-lease have been temporarily reduced. Second, prices for meat still being shipped abroad have been set below the ceiling for other AMA purchases. This tends to make meat flow into domestic rather than lend-lease channels.

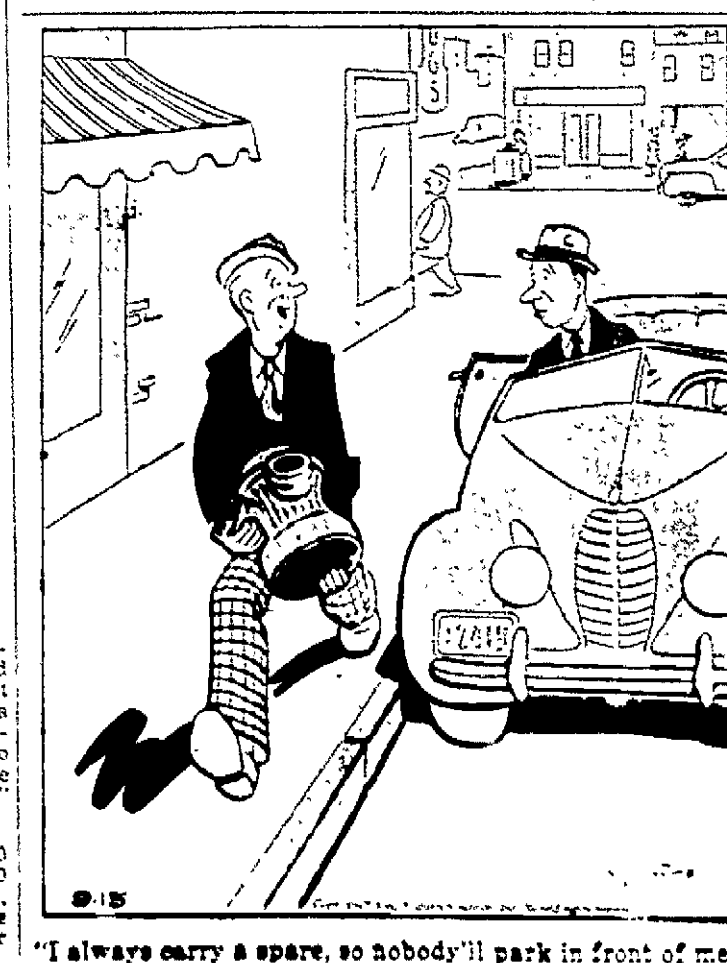

How to make the best of the shortage? Two plans are being considered. One is to allocate meat to various regions, then to states and perhaps to counties and cities and even individual butcher shops.

The other plan is just old-fashioned rationing. Use sugar. The WPB Food Requirements Committee, which developed the allocation idea, also has asked OPA to "proceed as rapidly as possible with the formulation of procedures for consumer rationing of meat." OPA, however, insists it has no immediate intention of rationing meat.

A Mean Trick

Ethel Gets Real Mad Because Army Has Taken Smoochy's Old Man, His Only Dependent.

By DAMON RUNYON

Mr. Joe Turp Writes From Brooklyn:

DEAR SIR: Last night I took my wife Ethel to the movies and we met a dame there by the name of Goldy Watan who is an old friend of Ethel's and lives in our neighborhood and after the picture they got together in the lobby and rabbed while I waited outside the lobby.

When she finally came out and joined me I was smiling because I wanted to get home and cop a little sleep for myself and I see how wrong I was. I see don't you talk enough to that dame over the telephone every day? I see the last time I heard you chinning to her you were at it so long you couldn't have left anything out but here you keep me standing around half of the night while you do more gassing with her.

Ethel sees how long is half the night I see. I see her plenty long that now long it is. I see half the night would be over six hours and we didn't talk more than a few minutes. I see you chinned the rag twenty minutes of my watch. I see what on earth can two dames find to talk about that long after they get to each other all day?

ETHEL sees well Joe I feel terribly sorry for a mean trick on Harold Hammer. I was trying to give her some good advice. I see do you mean Smoochy Hammer, that pale looking guy she goes around with? Ethel sees why certainly. Who else could I mean? I see well no way else I guess but I had forgotten his name as Harold. I see aren't those two ever going to get married?

Ethel sees well that's just it Joe. They were going to get married in a few months but now the government has upset all their plans. The government wants Harold to go to the war. I see well sweet she isn't the only one the governments wants but it seems to me I heard Smoochy was away down in the draft because he claimed he has somebody who depends on him for support. Ethel sees that's right Joe. I was his pops who was his dependent but now the government has taken his dependent away from him and that is the mean trick I am talking about.

I see Ethel do you mean the government has taken Smoochy's old man? Ethel sees she has drafted him to go to the war Joe. He is forty three years old and has not worked in quite a while and Harold has been giving him as much as five dollars some weeks so he was really dependent upon Harold and when Harold told the draft board about this they put him in a class that was not to be called to the war for a long time. Now all of a sudden they have taken Harold's pops and that leaves Harold without his dependent.

I see well Ethel that saves Smoochy those bucks he was giving the old man doesn't it? She sees yes Joe but after Harold's pops was taken the draft board sent Harold a notice that as he no longer had a dependent they had reclassified him and put him in the next roll and he has to go to the war in a few weeks. Goldy sees he is all broken up and sits around all day looking sad. Joe don't you think it is a mean trick for the government to take somebody's only dependent?

I see well I can see where it is quite a blow to Smoochy and Ethel sees it is worse one to Goldy and I have advised her to see Sam Watson the lawyer. Maybe they can sue the government for taking Harold's dependent. What do you think Joe? I see I think I need some sleep sweets.

Yours truly

JOE TURP.

A Prayer

This beautiful appeal was read by the Rev. William J. Frehill of St. John's church, Stateville, Ill., on the occasion of a town service flag raising, Sept. 14, 1918.

O God, we beseech Thee, protect our Soldiers and our Sailors who have pledged their lives for the safety of our laws and our homes. Send them help, O Lord, from Thy holy place, and defend them out of Zion. Be unto them, O Lord, a tower of strength from the face of the enemy. Design to guard Thy servants, O Lord, and be for them, we beseech Thee:

An auxiliary in the battle line—
A comfort on the march—
A shade in the heat—
A shelter in rain and in frost—
A chariot in fatigue—
A bodyguard in distress—

A staff when they slip, and a haven in the storm, so that under Thy Leadership they may happily arrive at their goal, and return safe to their loved ones.

Surround them, O Lord, with an impenetrable wall of Thine own, and by Thy powerful arm defend them at all times.

May our Lord Jesus Christ, be near them to defend them, be within them to preserve them, before them to lead them, be behind them to guard them, be above them to bless them Amen.

SENATE COMMITTEE APPROVES TAX BILL

Measure Aimed To Boost Collections To 25 Billions. The Senate Finance Committee has approved a tax bill aimed at increasing collections to 25 billion dollars.

The measure was sent to the drafting clerk after last-minute committee action lopped 5 percent off the previous approved rate of 45 percent on normal and surtax earnings of corporations. The committee also provided some relief for individuals by restoring the house level of surtaxes in the income brackets from $2,000 to $10,000 yearly. It had increased them last week to bring in $33,000,000 more revenue.

As it finally was referred to the technical experts who will spend the next 10 days drafting changes in the measure, the bill was unofficially estimated to provide a minimum of $6,774,000,000 more direct tax revenue than the $17,000,000,000 obtained under present laws, which it supplements. This compared with $2,710,000,000 in new taxes voted by the house.

The bill made these other major changes in existing law: Increased the normal income tax rate from 4 to 6 percent and boosted surtaxes from the present range of 6 to 77 percent to a new level of 13 to 82 percent. Reduced personal income tax exemptions from $1,500 to $1,200 for married couples, $750 to $500 for single persons and $100 to $300 for dependents.

Allowed new credit against income tax for medical expenses in excess of 5 percent of net income, with a maximum of $2,500. Boosted excess profit taxes on corporations from a 35 to 60 percent range to a flat 90 percent, changing bases for calculation levels.

Placed an over-all limitation of 80 percent of corporation income which could be collected in taxes. Eliminated capital stock and deferred surplus as a basis for tax on corporations. Made interest on future issues of state and local bonds taxable. Proposed joint congressional study of compulsory savings, with report due to congress by Dec. 1.

SECOND GALION MAN KILLED IN ACTION

Howard D. Nichols of Air Corps Dies in British Isles. Special to The Star. GALION, Sept. 13 — The death of the second Galion man in action has been learned through the war department.

BOMB

Japanese submarines thrilled an oil well area in southern California Feb. 23, causing slight damage, and a beach near Seaside, Ore., June 22, but it was the first evidence of an actual air bombing of the continental United States.

Howard "Raz" Gardner, forest service lookout, observed the plane and saw the fire break out from his post on Mount Drilly, nine miles from Brinkley, Ore. Gardner sounded the alarm and plunged through the forest to battle the flames. He succeeded so well he had them under control by the time the forest fire suppression crew arrived.

Heavily Timbered Area

So isolated is the spot that Ed Marshall, federal forester, was sure that the Japanese had chosen it for the assault. The countryside is heavily timbered, mountainous, sparsely settled, with few trails and no highways into the interior. Before the war Japanese worked extensively through the Checo river country, buying logs and rafting them downriver.

The Japanese, the plane and the fire became linked together shortly after Gardner had controlled the flames. He found bomb fragments and a "sizeable crater." The bomb sheared a six-inch tree and set fire to a stump, he reported to H. R. Dewart, Curry county air raid chairman.

HALF OF JAP CARRIERS GONE

Small Flattop Sunk in Solomons Island Battle, Latest To Go Down. It can now be reported that a small 1,500-ton Japanese carrier first identified as the Ruyto possibly was sunk in the big battle between carriers off the Solomon Islands Aug. 24.

Our pilots got four bomb hits and one torpedo hit on this ship. Patrol plane pilots several hours after the battle saw the carrier dead in the water and burning.

Our pilots who were on the spot also believe two Japanese cruisers and one submarine were damaged in the battle, in which our own losses were minor.

In addition two Japanese transport, one battleship and one transport were severely damaged. One of the cruisers and the transport later were seen abandoned. All these facts were compiled on the spot by an Associated Press reporter from personal observation.

The truth is that we won an important victory. (Details of the action were reported by navy communiques 111 and 112, Aug. 24 and 25 which told of severely damaging the small carrier Ruyto and of hitting a large cruiser, in addition to other ships.)

This was the third great carrier battle in the Pacific in which carrier-based planes did almost all the fighting. It compares with the Midway battle in the size of the forces involved. As at Midway and the Coral Sea engagement, the Japanese invasion forces were turned back short of their objectives.

In addition to the damage to enemy surface ships listed above, we shot down 98 enemy airplanes on Aug. 24 while losing only a few pilots.

SIGNS OF RENEWED JAP ACTIVITY SEEN

Patrols Increase in Drive Across Mountains. By The Associated Press. GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Sept. 15—There were signs today of possibly imminent action in the Owen Stanley mountains while the Japanese driving for Port Moresby have been stalled for five days, but the day's communique said the general situation remained unchanged.

The communique noted that patrol activity was increasing in the mountains where the invaders have advanced to within 40 miles of Port Moresby. Allied air units skidded over the enemy positions, raking them with machine-gun fire and bombs.

Allied aerial assaults on Japanese New Guinea bases at Lae, Salamaua and Buna were halted temporarily, but medium bombers attacked two small enemy cargo ships with bombs and machine-guns at Saumlaki in the Tanimbar Islands, north of Darwin, Australia.

THREE YOUTHS FACE ROBBERY CHARGES

To Be Arraigned Today in Robbery That Netted $1. Special to The Star. MT. GILEAD, Sept. 15—Three youths were to be arraigned today on charges of robbery and stealing at the point of a gun at the outcome of a week-end trial that netted the youths a dollar.

Earl Homer Bennett, 16, of Marietta, and Earl and Frank Courson, 18, of Mt. Vernon, were to be arraigned in juvenile court before Judge Conrad Clark and Earl's brother, Sam Bennett, 20, was to be taken before Judge James Bennett.

According to Marion county sheriff's office, the three were involved in a robbery at midnight last Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Van Sickle, an aged couple living near Marietta, and were caught with an attempted theft of a cash box at South Bloomfield.

J. P. Kesler, owner of the store, recovered the cash but took the youths to court. Kesler's office learned that in Columbus, Ohio.

About midnight Frank and Earl Van Sickle were awakened by noise in the driveway of their home. They told sheriff's officials that when Mr. Van Sickle opened the front door to investigate, two masked men entered the home and, at the point of guns, forced him to give them the dollar he had in his possession. Mr. Van Sickle said they examined a shotgun to make sure it was not loaded, and then tore the telephone from the wall.

Saturday morning Mr. Van Sickle, who is past 70 years of age, notified the office of sheriff Oscar George. The investigation by Sheriff George and Deputy W. H. Cunningham revealed the attempted theft at the South Bloomfield store.

The directive issued yesterday by Mary Lee Chalmers, head of the commission, authorized the commission to act without the consent of an employee or supervisor.

The power can also be used to transfer a government employee from one agency to a private war industry job whenever the commission finds that the employee is qualified to perform work in a war industry and is not performing it.

Casey, acting regional project control officer at Chicago. Mr. Casey wrote that "we have received information from the United States Public Health Service indicating the urgent need of our project."

He suggested that the completed forms be sent to Dr. Carl Watson of the WPA in Columbus.

Sewer Program Details

The project, based on a map of the city prepared by City Engineer T. S. Cahers, calls for a Clinton street trunk sewer in Clinton street, from West Center street south to Woodrow avenue, a distance of about 5,800 feet, to provide sewerage facilities for the area south of West Center street and west of Latourette street, also the Oaklind Heights area in the southwest part of the city.

An 18-inch sanitary intercepting sewer from the south end of the 24-inch sewer in Clinton street to the west end of Columbia street storm sewer at the south side of the Erie railroad tracks, to carry the dry weather flow from Columbia street sewer to the sanitary system.

Construction of a 42-inch storm sewer in Clinton street in connection with the sanitary sewer from Columbia street open ditch to Woodrow avenue.

Construction of the Niles street intercepting sewer to carry dry weather flow from Silver street storm sewer, beginning at the intersection of Silver and Niles streets, continuing south in Niles and Kenton avenue to a point opposite the Center line of Cayuga street then across the Big Four and Erie tracks south in Cayuga to Center street.

Construction of the Quinga storm sewer in the southeast part of the city to carry the storm water to the Quinga ditch, beginning at Indiana avenue and the alley east of Reed avenue, south in the alley east of Reed to Mr. Vernon avenue and thence across private right of way to the Quinga open ditch, which has been deeded, and endorsed by the county commissioners with CCC assistance.

In his original letter to D. R. Kinnick, regional engineer for the WPA at Chicago, the mayor said that construction of homes in the southwest part of the city for defense employees awaits construction of the sewer and that the state department of public health has requested that Marion take steps for construction of the 18-inch sanitary intercepting sewer.

Needed for Housing

The Niles street project is necessary if any defense housing projects are developed in that area, the mayor informed Mr. Kinnick.

"Because of the numerous defense plants locating here and the rapid increase in population as a result, a greater demand is being made in our trunk sewers and we are unable to construct them to safeguard the health of this rapidly growing community. We are informed our community will increase from 50 to 60 per cent within the next six to 12 months. Housing for defense workers is proposed in the section of the city served by the above projects."

The mayor said last night he will contact Dr. Watson in Columbus before asking the city engineer to fill out the application forms.

Mr. Casey wrote the mayor that "No commitment can be given that an allotment will be made for any certain project, but you are assured that every consideration will be given to your project."

The mayor asked council to consider the proposal, for which Marion would pay a part of the cost. He said he held hopes that the city's share could come from the sewer rental project which will be voted on in the November election.

Councilmen agreed that the proposed outlined by the mayor would put the city's system of sewer in top shape, except for one spot in the east end, from Jefferson street east to Center.

The engineer on sidewalks requires that the city engineer draw up specifications and requirements for the construction and repair of public sidewalks and keep them on file in his office, that anyone intending to construct or repair a public sidewalk shall notify the engineer and shall do the work according to the specifications and under supervision of the engineer, that any person or corporation who violates the provision of the ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction be fined not less than $25 nor more than $250 for each offense.

The ordinance was requested some time ago by a Marion businessman who believed that over a long period of years the ordinance would result in side by side of uniform grade and appearance, since a regulation would cover any necessary replacements.

Petitions Tabled

Over Councilman Black's "no" vote called tabled petitions to take nine inches off East Pleasant street at Star street, Pleasant street at Star street, and to transfer the land to the owner of the property at the southeast corner. The property has a chimney which the owner wishes to remove. The transfer was signed by the owners and a second petition was filed by a few residents who had misinterpreted the proposal and thought it involved two feet of city property. Mr. Black said he felt the matter should be attended to and that if the property was on a city street it should be cleared. One councilman said the property in question had been sold, the new owner accepting the fact that the chimney was a part of city property.

Funds Appropriated

In making additional appropriations for the year council authorized transfer of $425 from the general fund to the service fund, $100 for fuel and light and $25 for stationery and printing; appropriation of $10,000 from the railroad fund for the department payroll; appropriation of $4,000 from the street maintenance and repair fund to pay employees and for labor appropriation from the gasoline tax fund of $300 for miscellaneous expense.

Council approved transfer of Cherry avenue land in the Marion-Osgood addition from the industrial to the industrial district, to take care of the city for new construction under way at the Osgood Co.

Councilman Earl Johnson presided in the absence of the president, Robert H. Stief, who could not be present. Councilman H. W. Wilhelm is ill and could not be present.

Water Main Sought

A petition for construction of a water main in Curve street from Latourette to Glad and in Glad from Curve to the south end and in Bennett street from Latourette street to Nye street, was sent to the water committee, and a petition for a sanitary sewer in Glad street and Curve street from Bennett to Center and in Bennett from Nye to Latourette, was referred to the sewer committee.

There was considerable discussion of petitions for traffic signals at North Main and Hecker streets, and at Merchant avenue and East Church streets. Councilman Perry Bachelder said he had received reports that the city no longer can purchase traffic lights.

Council referred to the finance committee a request from J. C. A. Arter, attorney representing the Home Indemnity Co. of New York, that the city pay a balance of $60.71 in connection with the showing out of a window in the Engle building on Dec. 29, 1941 by Police Patrolman Glen Obenour. Mr. Arter said the replacement was made by the Home Co. and that the balance was left after a credit of $5.87 was given on the old glass.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 15—The WPA reported today that it had collected thus far 10,000,000 pounds of scrap metal and 105,000 pounds of rubber from farms in Ohio.

Councilman Robinson submitted a petition from Dix avenue residents for street repairs reported needed since March and for repair of a catch basin at Dix and Wilson avenues. He said he had been informed the matter had been reported to Safety.

Cong. Smith Blames Non-Essential Spending for Inflation Troubles

Age, does he not even imply that the war effort is being imperiled by the threat of economic chaos and that farm prices are primarily responsible for this situation?

"How possibly can the President make such an unfair and unfounded assertion as this? He certainly must know if the war effort is being imperiled there are other factors responsible for this besides the prices of farm products. If farm prices are responsible, some of these in my opinion, are far more potent in driving the cost of living than are the prices the farmer receives for his produce.

"It is certainly very notable that in the President's seven-point national economic policy designed to stabilize the domestic economy he leaves out altogether the most important cause of what he calls a spiraling domestic economy, and which he asserts is imperiling the war effort by threatening economic chaos.

"Undoubtedly the most powerful cause factor for the production of wild and uncontrolled inflation is the enormous waste of Federal and non-Federal, non-defense spending. In fact, this factor is the real source of inflation and is 100 times more powerful in causing depreciation of currency—(so-called rises in prices)—than are farm prices, wages, and all the other factors put together. If the President really means to check the threat of runaway inflation, here is the place for him to start.

"In his fireside chat he tells us 'people must stop spending for luxuries. The greatest luxury in America and the only really dangerous one is politics. For this luxury our people are forced to pay unusually many billions of dollars, and which produces the worst kind of inflation.

"But here is the most startling part of the President's message. Unless the Congress obeys, his orders he will be forced to assume responsibility to the people of this country to see to it that the war effort is no longer imperiled by the threat of economic chaos. He then goes on to say, the President has the power, under the Constitution and under congressional acts, to take measures necessary to avert a disaster which would interfere with the winning of the war. Here is a clear statement from the President that he believes the war effort is already imperiled by the threat of economic chaos. Further, that he already possesses sufficient power under the Constitution and congressional acts to take the necessary measures to combat this peril.

"Certainly the economy was not imperiled when the President presented this seven-point program to the Congress last April or when he said, 'If it is now imperiled, that must have taken place before this time. Why has he not acted before this actually took place?

"So far as I am concerned personally I am ready and willing to support a measure that will deal as effectively as I believe now is possible with the problem of inflation. But that measure must be all inclusive and entirely free from politics and absolutely impartial to all groups."

LIONS HEAR COLLEGE HEAD

Dr. Robert Williams of Ohio Northern University Talks at Club Dinner.

America and the whole world must turn to the help of spiritual forces in shaping the world of tomorrow, Dr. Robert Williams, president of Ohio Northern University, told members of Marion's Lions club at a dinner meeting Monday night in Hotel Hamilton.

The meeting was the first of a series of occasional night meetings the club plans to hold and launched an attendance contest among several club teams to end in a flag party May 9. A group of Delaware Lions club members attended, and a brief talk was given by Howard Squire, a blind youth who operates a Delaware newsstand and was brought along by Seaside Eye clinic.

Dr. Williams took as his subject, "The World of Tomorrow and the Role of Spiritual Forces in the World of Tomorrow."

Blames Wrong Philosophy

One factor he blamed is a deterioration of spiritual things and too much emphasis on physical possessions or, as he put it, our lives have been controlled too much by a philosophy of materialism and not enough by a philosophy of the spiritual. He depicted history and called for support of the biblical question that man does not live by bread alone but by every word that proceeds from the mouth of God, but the world still is loath to believe it.

The second factor he mentioned was a failure to distinguish between the moral and material uses of science, pointing out that scientific use of scientific knowledge has plunged the world into a war in which science is being used for the destruction of life.

The third factor, he said, is the selfishness of men to use truth with the things of the world for their own selfish ends, and in every way living he declared.

Clies World's Needs

Turning to his own ideas about the world of tomorrow, he cited three needs. One, he said, is a "solidarity of humanity" because airplanes, radios and other advancements of science makes "all of us neighbors" and raises a need for the nations as well as individuals to live as friendly neighbors. The second need, he continued, is for recognition that all human life is instrumental to a higher purpose and that material wealth is only a foundation for building a better world.

Third, the said, is a need for the human race to view the new world in the role of trustees or stewards. To make the world of tomorrow what it should be, individuals as well as nations must use their energies, their material

INJURED SOLDIER STILL UNCONSCIOUS

Sgt. Harold Denzer in Hospital at Beaumont, Tex.

Sgt. Harold Denzer, who suffered a skull fracture in a truck accident Saturday, was still unconscious last night in the Beaumont, Tex., hospital, according to word his father Harold F. Denzer, sent to Mrs. Denzer at their home at 760 East Center street. A brain specialist and day and night nurses are in attendance and the specialist was encouraged yesterday about Sergeant Denzer's condition.

When a truck in which he was riding in transfer from a camp in Louisiana to another in Texas, started to skid off the highway, Sergeant Denzer leaped out and a head struck the pavement. With him in the hospital is another young army man who suffered a broken shoulder and broken ribs when the truck went into a ditch.

Constitutional Inadequacy

"The main trouble with many of the patients I see every day is that they are always weak and tired, and full of pain, and always getting sick in one way or another. Many have been operated on several times, and still aren't well."

So writes my friend Dr. Alvarez, of the Mayo Clinic, about the group of people he says have constitutional inadequacy. He says they are getting a raw deal from the medical profession.

Over and over again they go to some medical institution to have a "thorough overhauling," and always a consultant finds some little defect that he views with alarm and has fixed, and the poor victim thinks he or she is going to get better, but never does.

Favorite diagnoses on such people just now are colitis, spastic colon, chronic appendicitis, mild endocrine gland disorder, blood calcium, vitamin deficiency, and low blood pressure.

The fact is that some people are put together in a way that makes them constitutionally inadequate to take the hard knocks and do the hard work of the world. Their muscles are thin and weak. Their digestion is under par. Their abdominal organs are dropped. The muscles of the bowel are weak.

They take cold and get other infections easily. Physicians should recognize this more frequently. Dr. Alvarez thinks, and tell these people frankly they are never going to be "cured" in the sense that they will have blooming health.

Their fundamental condition is irreducible and they should adjust their lives to a lower level of energy expenditure.

In most cases the doctor should be able to recognize these patients on their appearance. Certainly after listening to their story. They are chronically fatigued, they have had much disability, much treatment, they are under weight, the muscles are thin, they sag in some degree or other.

At other times it is not so evident—when the patient is a big, well-muscled man, or a straight, fine-looking woman. But then the history makes things clear—frequent severe disabilities after every little infection, accident or emotional crisis. "Dad may look big and strong, but let him get a pimple on the nose and he'll be laid up for two weeks."

As to treatment Dr. Alvarez believes that they should be told frankly that no spectacular treatment is going to make a "husky" of such a person. There is a kind of prejudice against such frankness on the grounds that it discourages them. My experience, however, is that it really is a relief—and that they get what amounts to a cure by adjusting their lives to their body's capacity.

Many of them have done great work in the world—Darwin was a typical example. He could only work an hour or more a day, a trip to London would upset him for a week, yet he lived to be 73.

Certainly much of their trouble comes from emotional upsets and these the physician must help them to control—they get into fustier with street car conductors, clerks in stores, relatives. They waste their energy on foolish thinking, worrying, conscience searching, jealousies, flare-ups—all of which exhaust them physically.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

THE sound of Dicky's last blow on the chain pipe had not died out before a window above our heads opened, and Harry Underwood came down against the drawn curtain.

"I'll be at the front door in one minute," he said.

"Will be waiting for you," Dicky now answered, turning me around and rushing me back to the front steps.

"Get inside quickly," Harry said, then asked the guard "Anybody around?"

"Not a soul except your own friends," the man replied. But as I went inside an uneasy question stirred within me. Had the man hesitated in his answer, as if he thought he ought to add something to it?

"What's up?" Harry asked in evident concern.

"My intuition was stronger now," "Where is Lillian?" I asked.

"In her room," he answered. "What's wrong?"

"Nothing that we know of," I said. "Dicky will tell you what's in Father's mind. But please tell me this quickly. Where is Carolyn?"

"In Lila's room, sleeping on the couch."

I was at the door by the time he had finished. As I went through it I called back:

"Please follow me up, but noiselessly, as soon as Dicky has called on Nurse."

In almost any other emergency I should not have hesitated for a second in awakening Lillian, but in her present state of emotional excitement, and knowing that Carolyn was with her behind that closed door, trading, I was sure, upon Lillian's love and terror for Marion, I dared not knock.

Instead, I stole to the door of Miss Whitlock's adjoining room and tapped the knob. As I had hoped, the door was unlocked, and I went in with a lack of noise which would have insured any ordinary sleeper against awakening.

But the nurse had developed a sixth sense, and before I was inside the door she was sitting up-right in bed, and a flashlight was playing over my face.

"Ah! I thought you'd be along," she said cryptically.

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, Sept. 16

THIS SHOULD be an interesting and eventful day, with many pleasures and gains, but not without its surprises, conflicts and contradictions. There are signs of outstanding performances of a public group or fraternal nature, with gratifying rewards, honors or tokens of esteem. Happy and lucrative conditions are shown for the young and romantic. Artistic, intellectual and social functions should engage the major attention. However there may be disappointments, delays and possibly reversals even in this connection.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of conflicting circumstances, with unusual activity and many profitable adventures, possibly in literary, artistic or social contacts, although there may be emotional or sentimental setbacks or disappointments. This might be due to lowered health or vitality or that of those in the domestic circle. Beware nervous tension and emotional strain, also be cautious with writings.

A child born on this day may have a life of fluctuations and strange vicissitudes. It may succeed financially but have sorrows or disappointments in its social or romantic affiliations.
